FYI – haven't made my through all the details yet. I'll take a look and see which if any of these meetings I should attend. I know travel is tight if not already tied up.

Subject: Community Update and upcoming meetings: Exide

Dear Advisory Group members:

Please see the attached September Update (in English and Spanish), also available on the DTSC website. Feel free to distribute widely.

For your information, the City of Commerce requested that DTSC staff attend its upcoming September 8th Council meeting at 6:30pm. Several DTSC staff members will be in attendance for that agenda item to provide the update information that was discussed at the August 20th Advisory Group meeting, and answer questions.

Here are several upcoming dates to save on your calendar:

- Thursday, September 24th (time and location to be determined) – Technical Study Session of the Advisory Group to review the Exide closure plan.

- A Saturday in October (3rd, 10th, or 17th, location to be determined) – Advisory group meeting: Residential sampling and cleanup tour.

- o We heard at several meetings a request for a tour of how the residential cleanups happen to improve transparency and answer questions. We're hoping to form a planning committee within the Advisory Group to discuss the goals of this tour, and assist in planning to ensure its success and usefulness. This tour will be followed by a public listening session for any community member to attend, raise issues and ask questions. *If you are interested in participating on the planning committee for the tour, please contact Ana Mascarenas at Ana.Mascarenas@dtsc.ca.gov. Ana will put together a planning call next week.

- Thursday, October 22nd (time and location to be determined) – Technical study session of the Advisory Group on the Sampling and Cleanup Plan

Over the next several months, we hope to attend neighborhood meetings to provide this information and answer questions from the community -- please let us know if you have suggestions on public or neighborhood meetings we should attend.

Thanks.

Jim
